SOME DEMOCRATIC INCONSISTENCIES.

There were some queer arguments made by some of the speakers who came to Janesville during the fair to enlighten their democratic friends. No democratic speaker has been yet able to show where in free trade, or anything approaching it, is best for the American people; neither can they, nor do they, deny that this country has marvelously progressed under the republican policy of protection.

But the men who come to the Rock county fair to talk for democracy and revenue reform, had to say something, and being in straitened circumstances for words of wisdom and solid ground upon which to base their assertions, they had to resort to all sorts of clap-net that they might appear to be honest and sincere. Intelligent men will really have sympathy for Mr. Kall, the kindly disposed candidate for lieutenant governor, who tried hard to make out a case for the democratic party and free wool. He wanted to say something on wool and the tariff, and it seems that he thought it didn't make much difference what he said. He tried to argue that we ought to have free wool that might be made cheap and then he seemed to forget that simple proposition, and went on to say that when the tariff was the highest wool was the lowest in price.

Mr. Frank Hard, the eminent free trader, who lost his seat in congress on account of free trade, tried to convince his democratic friends that wages were higher in England than in this country. As an illustration, he said that in Germany a shoemaker got 70 cents a pair for making a certain class of shoes, and the shoemakers in this country get only 35 cents, but he did admit that while the German shoemaker was making two pairs, the American would make two pairs on account of machinery; so that while the German was earning $1.40, the American was making $3.50. Mr. Hard belongs to that class of free traders who pretend to believe that import duties increase the price of the article on which the duty is placed, and yet he knows, as every intelligent person knows, that this is not the case; for neither Mr. Hard nor any other democrat, can name a single article used by any factory in this country, that has been made cheaper by protection. There is not a single article in the list of necessities, but that is cheaper now than it was under any free trade period of this country. These are facts that every workman should understand. They will not be given by free traders, because to do so would completely demolish their argument.

But one word more: It was argued higher in Europe than in this country, or if a day's wages has a greater purchasing power there than here, why don't Americans work in Europe? Why do tens of thousands of Europeans seek employment in this country every year to find homes? Mr. Hard should remember that an American mechanic or day laborer was never known to go to Europe to seek employment and make that country his home. Neither has it ever been known that an American farmer ever foretook his native land to engage in farming in any country or continent of Europe.

Will Mr. Hard, and his democratic friends who heard him, take these words of James Buchanan in his annual message in December 1857, and seriously consider, for they refer to a time when free trade was reigning in all its glory in the country: "With unexpressed plenty in the abundance of national wealth, our manufactures have expanded, our public works are retarded, our private enterprises abandoned and our laborers thrown out of employment and reduced to want."

POTATOES AND THE MILLS BILL.
There has been a good deal of interest worked up of late among farmers in regard to the provision in the Mills bill which takes the duty off potatoes. The bill is against the farmers. But the democratic papers do not want to admit this, and the Troy Press, a democratic paper, says:

"The Mills bill absolutely repeals, without any qualification, the duty on potatoes in those words (see here) 1889 of the free list of that bill):

"Vegetables in their natural state, or in salt or brine, not specially enumerated or provided for."

Potatoes are vegetables; they are, therefore, put on the free list. "The intent is clear; had potatoes been intended for exemption from the free list they would have been 'specially enumerated and provided for,' to use the language of the act. They are the 'vegetables' which, of all others, were most certain to have been in special contemplation of the author of the bill; they are the 'vegetables' most largely imported to the United States, and the omission of protection to them was not accidental."

In Webster's dictionary, the word vegetable, is defined as follows:

"A plant used for culinary purposes, or cultivated in gardens, or destined for feeding cattle, sheep, or other animals, as cabbage, cauliflower, turnips, potatoes, peas, beans and the like."

But the democratic members of congress showed their hypocrisy when driven to the wall by the republicans in their discussion of vegetable clause of the bill; and right here is a point to which the Gazette invites the special attention of its readers. When this clause was being discussed the republican members said that it passed it would put potatoes on the free list. The democrats said it would not. Then the republicans asked that all doubt be cleared away by adding a few words to show that they were not affected. But the democrats would not consent. While they claimed that potatoes would not be admitted free, the democrats would not remove all doubt by simply inserting a word or two to make the matter plain. They were caught right here in an act of gross hypocrisy, and now attempt to make the farmers believe that they did not intend to allow potatoes to go unprotected. The scheme will not work.

ABOUT MR. HOARD.
There is one very pleasant feature on the republican side of the state campaign that deserves special notice. The Gazette has reference to Mr. Hoard. His popularity is not only a surprise to his political opponents, but his power on the stump, his ability to deal with the weighty questions of the day, his broad intelligence, and his earnestness, and force of language, are something that they did not dream of. The "cow candidate" has become the able and popular candidate of the people, and his nomination reflects the highest honor on the republican party.

It is refreshing to turn away from the headstrong endowments Mr. Hoard has received from the papers in his own state to those given him not only by a great journal far away from home but by an opposition paper, the New York Sun. In reproducing from that paper its opinion of Mr. Hoard, the Milwaukee Sentinel by way of preface says, "the fame of the great, hearty, clear-minded candidate of the Wisconsin republicans is extending. His speech to the Young Men's Republican club has struck readers far and near as something refreshing in a campaign of noise and fury. A man with the sweetness and mellowness of Emerson, the fecundity and thoughtfulness and humor of Lincoln, the juvenility of Holmes, is a spectacle so rare on the stump that he commands instant attention and admiration."

The experienced great editor of the New York Sun, Mr. Charles A. Dana, has read Mr. Hoard's speech and enjoyed it. He says: "Mr. William Dampster Hoard, the republican candidate for governor of Wisconsin, is making a rattling success. On the stump he is a power. The simplicity, directness and humor of his oratory remind people of Abraham Lincoln, and he is a wonderful story teller. As a rule, the wisest of his speeches are planned in a padding." Mr. Dana then gives some specimens and continues: "To the Young Men's Republican club in Milwaukee he is other always. Mr. Hoard declared that he should always be a boy. 'Why,' he said, 'during our army days, when a commander general desired to call men to the very highest pitch of heroism and courage, what did he say to them? Did he say 'Old men, charge?' No; what did he say? 'Boys, get there!' I hope," continued Mr. Hoard, "that when I become so permeated with dry rot that I am no longer good for anything, they will simply lay me away, and consider me not as an old man, but as a played-out boy." Mr. Hoard is still comparatively youthful, but it is he to live to the years of Michael Eugene Cheverrel, or even some of the minor patriots of the bible, he will still be young. Such a man never grows old."

The New York Times (Dem.) thinks that "the worst result of the nomination of Governor Kall will be that it will afford a national basis for the objection that many worthy people entertain to voting for a democratic candidate for any office." That is very true. But the democrats in New York are in a state of great unreasonableness; and the condition of things democratic in the Empire state may be stated in this way, that the democrats would be damned if they did not vote for Kall, and would be damned if they didn't.

Timothy F. Ryan, the democratic candidate for attorney general, in his Lippincott's last speech, said: "Re-elect that grand, good man—the man we love on account of his noble character—Grover Cleveland; give us both new men of congress, and we will make the purchasing power of a day's wages four times—three times its present purchasing power." This remark would seem to explain the empty condition of the barrels the democrats had in their procession.

The republicans of the Seventh congressional district in this state have re-nominated the Hon. O. B. Thomas. This was a good thing for the republicans of the Seventh to do. Mr. Thomas is one of the noblest members of the house from this state. He belongs to that class of representatives that are conspicuous for their industry, personal courage, integrity of character, ripe scholarship, and well-rounded ability. He is not only a credit to his district, but he is an honor to the state.

The Hon. William Warner, republican congressman from the Kansas City, Missouri district, was to-day elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, in session at Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Warner is a native of this state, served during the war in the Thirty-third and Forty-fourth Wisconsin Infantry, and has been a practicing lawyer in Kansas City for some years.

Bishop Newman, of the Methodist Episcopal church, writes to General Cyrus Bassey to deny that he has joined the prohibition party, saying:

"The supreme duty is to place the control of government in the hands of Harrison and Morton. I vote as I pray, and pray as I vote. Your friend, JOHN F. NEWMAN."

Dr. H. J. Wall, of Richland Center, in this state, one of the leading physicians of that part of the state, and a lifelong democrat, who has been a prominent party leader for many years, has declared his intention of supporting Harrison and Morton and the entire republican ticket.

The New York World, since it heard from Maine, concludes that "the republicans are alive and polling their fall strength." The big guns from Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont, and Maine seem to have waked up the democrats to a realizing sense of the condition of things.

The democrats insist that Mr. Cleveland is the most economical president the country has ever had. It does look that way. "He is the first one who has saved enough out of his salary to justify a contribution of $10,000 to the campaign fund of his party."

Mr. Thomas B. Carroll, a prominent Sagadahoc democrat, attacks both Cleveland and Hill, and declares for Harrison and protection.

THE RESULT IN MAINE.
Complete Returns Fix the Republican Majority at 18,453—The Senate Solidly Republican.

LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 14.—The Lewiston Journal has returned from all the towns in Maine. Bartlefield has 70,003; Putnam, 61,000.

GOVERNOR-ELECT BURLINGAME.
108; Cushing, 207; Simons, 93. Republican majority, 18,453. The Senate is unanimously Republican. The House has 123 Republicans and twenty-eight Democrats.

FAVORABLE TO THE KNIGHTS.
The Pope Declares That Catholics May Join to the Order.

New York, Sept. 14.—A special cable dispatch from Rome, which has official sanction, has been received by the Catholic press, announcing the decree of the holy office on the Knights of Labor question, favorable to that organization, has been forwarded to Cardinal Gibbons. It will be remembered that in April, 1887, the Holy See, concurring in the ideas set forth in the letter of Cardinal Gibbons in favor of the Knights, decided that there was no cause for action. The Pope also decided that in Canada, where a mandament had been issued against Knights, members of the order could receive absolution on promise of obedience to future decisions of the Holy See. The matter has been placed before the holy office, and the decree is the result. It settles for good the question, as far as Rome is concerned, provided, of course, the constitution and aims of the order remain the same.

MANY LIVES LOST.
Great Destruction to Property and Crops by Floods in Maine.

CITY OF MILWAUKEE, Sept. 14.—A dispatch from Omaha shows that the loss of life by the floods amounted to forty-four persons and that the damage to property amounts to more than $200,000. Many cattle have been lost. In the city of Mexico rains have been constant since Saturday. In the State of Vera Cruz dead bodies are being found. The corn, rice and bean crops are complete failures, and much of the land formerly fertile and forested is now sandy waste. Rains continue falling throughout the State, and there are no signs of the floods abating.

No Greenback National Ticket.
CINCINNATI, Sept. 14.—The National Committee of the Greenback party, in session in this city, adjourned Wednesday afternoon, after deciding not to put a National ticket in the fall, pending resolutions against a fusion with other parties, and calling a National convention to meet in this city on the first Wednesday in September, 1889.

Terrible Revenge.
PRINCETON, Ind., Sept. 14.—At the fair grounds yesterday, S. J. Grubb shot and fatally wounded Miss Gertrude Downey because she refused his company. He shot five times, three balls taking effect, one in the right eye, and two others striking her in the chest. Grubb was taken off to the hospital, and his revolver three times at his own head.

An Opera-House Burned.
SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Jacobs & Proctor's Grand Opera-House and the adjoining property were destroyed by fire at 4:15 o'clock a. m. The building was owned by Jacobs & Lynch. Kimball's Merry Makers were filling an engagement at the opera-house, and their wardrobe was entirely destroyed. The losses foot up $800,000.

Walking advertisement for Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy are the thousands it has cured.

WRAPPED IN GLOOM.

The Fever Fighters at Jackson-ville Greatly Discouraged.

THE DISEASE RAPIDLY SPREADING.

The Sick List and Death Roll Constantly Growing Larger—A Death in Alabama—Latest Concerning the Plague.

MORE DEATHS.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 14.—The city wears a most desolate look. The many now cases and the rumors that several doctors have been taken sick, together with the rainy, damp and chilly weather, have had a most depressing effect. Forty-four new cases were reported yesterday, making them Dr. R. P. Daniels. The death number is 78; 12 deaths, 10. More physicians and medical nurses are needed, but it is useless for unacclimated nurses to come, as they are sure to succumb to the disease. Eighty nurses are expected from New Orleans, Charleston, Savannah and Atlanta. Colorado, South Carolina, of the Red Cross Association, will be here soon. He leaves nine nurses at Jacksonville and will bring twelve with him. The following address has been adopted: "To Our Congressmen: Through the cloud of gloom, sorrow, suffering and death which overclouds us your sympathy and generosity like the glad tidings of great joy and bring light and life to our people. Our hearts overflow with gratitude. To those whom we can reach by correspondence we will endeavor to express our appreciation for their generous contributions. We are deeply moved by your spontaneous efforts for our relief. To each and all we extend our warmest thanks."

"J. A. DAVIS, President.
"CHARLES S. ADAMS, Secretary."

"Jacksonville Auxiliary Sanitary Association."
Dr. C. R. Mallet, one of our commanders, on behalf of Jacksonville Commandery, Knights Templar, has issued an appeal to Templars throughout the United States for aid to establish a hospital here, the equipment and maintenance of which shall be directly under the auspices of the Knights Templar of the United States, for the reception of the destitute and sick of all classes and creeds. All donations for this purpose should be sent to Samuel Briggs, Cleveland, O.; James R. Thompson, Chicago, Ill.; Henry F. Hosley, 567 Dorchester avenue, Boston, Mass.; Joseph Wright, 70 Market street, Philadelphia, Pa.; Captain J. P. Adams, 3 City Hall, New York City, or directly to Jacksonville.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 14.—Advices from Decatur, Ala., say that Mr. Spencer died there of yellow fever. It is the case that was mentioned as suspicious Wednesday. There is great excitement among the people of Decatur, and all trains are crowded with people fleeing from the town. Dr. W. H. Storer, who is in charge of the Marine Hospital Bureau during the absence of Surgeon-General Hamilton in Florida, said that he thought every precaution had been taken to prevent contagion from the case of Prof. Proctor in New York, but there was a telling how much baggage has been infected with yellow fever germs by that of the professor. While he thought the chances were against yellow fever becoming epidemic as far north as New York at this time of the year, still it was possible.

New York, Sept. 14.—Prof. Proctor's body was removed from the hospital where he died to North Brother's island, where it was placed in an isolated dead house especially prepared for such purposes. The health authorities do not anticipate any danger from this case, as every thing possible only possible port is from the daily arrival of refugees from Florida and in the chance of some one of them lying ill with the fever, unsuspected, until the contagion has had time to develop. Even in that case the danger is really slight.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Sept. 14.—Hon. Isaac F. Loyden, Grand Master of the Indiana Masons, has issued a circular to the Masonic lodges of Indiana, appealing for immediate contributions to aid the yellow fever sufferers at Jacksonville, Fla.

ASKING FOR VOTES.
Several Entries in the Congressional Race Since Last Report.

On Thursday, in the Fourth Iowa district Republican convention, J. H. Storer was nominated for Congress on the 33rd ballot. Other nominations on Thursday were as follows: Tenth Massachusetts district, J. H. Walker (Rep.); Third Arkansas, T. C. McKee (Dem.); re-nominated, Third Kentucky district, W. C. Hunter (Rep.); Sixth Tennessee district, Joseph E. Washburn (Dem.); re-nominated, Eighteenth Ohio district, G. F. Hunt (Dem.); Seventh Mississippi district, J. H. Storer (Rep.); Third Wisconsin district, H. M. La Follette (Rep.); re-nominated, Eighth Wisconsin district, Samuel C. Jackson, the Union-Labor candidate.

AN AWFUL DISASTER.
An Italian Steamer Sunk in Collision Off the Canary Islands—Forty-Five Lost—Mangled Details.

MADRID, Sept. 14.—Information is received that the steamer Laureana, while entering the harbor of Port Luz, Canary Islands, came into collision with the Italian steamer Sud America, from Montevideo, which was lying at anchor. The latter, which had on board 210 passengers and a crew of 57, sank almost immediately. One hundred and eighty of the passengers and sixty-three of the crew were rescued and safely landed. Only nine bodies were recovered.

Setting With the Red River Mills. Part, Ind., Sept. 13.—Final settlement with the surviving members of the Red river Mills Indians, who being made by the United States Government, is $25,000 is due them.
